What you need to know about this course.

This is an online course that you can study at your own pace. This means that you will login to Study Cloud where you are provided with all your study resources and support on your computer, tablet and smartphone.

What learning materials are included with this course?

Following your enrolment into this course, our administration staff will provide you with your username and password to access the CLET Online study platform. You will then have the opportunity to go through the comprehensive course overview and induction area and complete a pre-course self-assessment. Following this, an interview with a CLET Trainer will be scheduled to discuss your study goals, background, and any additional study needs you may have. Results from both of these will help CLET staff get to know you and to ensure you are enrolled into the correct course for you.

Inside the CLET Online study platform you will also have access to all your study resources, submit assessments, assessment feedback, student support, online meeting area, news, library areas and much more.

Examples of resources:

- unit guide for each unit of study
- study plan
- learning instructional videos
- assessment instructional videos
- audio instructions
- relevant websites
- industry videos
- relevant unit readings
- message your trainer button
- access to ALL CLET support staff

CLET Online provides 24/7 access to all course resources and the ability to complete and submit assessments, including:

- Dashboard, including the latest news
- Student Orientation
- Individual unit areas including a video overview
- Study progress
- ZOOM meeting area for live meetings and assessments with the trainer

RTO #31254

- Study workbooks that include website links, industry videos and images, readings and engaging activities
- Assessment instructions that include templates when required
- Assessment submission areas
- Assessment results and feedback
- Opportunity for you to provide feedback on your learning experience
- Guidance on where to find any additional (free or trial) software needed and how to find and use it

What are the assessment methods?

This course is assessed using a diverse range of assessment strategies to ensure we cover the assessment conditions for each unit of study and provide our students with interesting and flexible assessment experiences.

All assessments are completed in your own time and submitted online, with no assessment due dates. This modern and flexible approach is designed to reduce the uncomfortable pressure and unnecessary stress that traditional assessment testing is so famous for. Marking feedback is provided online usually within 3 weeks of submission.

Many assessments will include researching, reading and analysing information on your computer, laptop or tablet (Internet required), however each unit of study provides assessment instructions and benchmarks you can easily follow to successfully complete each assessment task.

Admission requirements

What are the admission requirements for the course?

There are no formal entry requirements for this qualification.

Suggested Entry Pathways for Successful Outcomes:

Due to the ASCF core skills of learning, reading, writing, oral communication and numeracy involved in this course, it is suggested that:

Education: you have successfully completed year 10 (only a recommendation); or have previous vocational study.

Employment: you have an interest in working in the business area of an organisation, private or public sector, or you would like to use this course to prepare you for higher level study.

Is this course right for me?: to assist with your decision, following enrolment an interview will be organised with a relevant member of CLET to discuss your goals and make sure this is the correct course to help you achieve your goals.

Technical Requirements: please see the technical requirements below, as you will need access to a modern personal computer and the internet to study this course. In addition, you will need to be able to use this computer, including basic word processing, use of Microsoft Office software and electronic communication platforms and internet search engines.

Enrolment Language, Literacy and Numeracy (LLN) testing: if you cannot meet any of the above suggested entry requirements, which are a guide only and not mandatory, and you would still like to enrol into this course, your current learning, reading, writing, oral communication and numeracy skills must be at a level to be able to read and write in English and undertake the assessment tasks. Non-English background learners must have a minimum IELTS of 5.5 to be able to successfully complete this course.

Learner support: learner support is offered for this course. Following enrolment you will be asked to complete a questionnaire and undertake an interview with a CLET Trainer that will allow you to identify any factors that may impact your ability to successfully complete your studies.

What is online learning? Your Study Cloud is available 24/7

- no more visiting the library, it is all online
- student news and FAQ's all available 24/7
- assessment results and feedback provided online
- access to all student support services via the student hub
- access learning resources and assessments online 24/7
- complete and upload assessments online
- absolute flexibility and you choose when to study
- your classroom goes everywhere with you

Language, literacy and numeracy testing

This is provided as part of the enrolment and induction process to allow us to check your core skills learning, reading, writing, oral communication and numeracy skills entering the course. This will allow our support staff to build a profile against your selected course and offer you a support plan if needed. This is designed to increase your ability to successfully complete your course in a timely manner that best suits your personal needs.

What core skills will I be expected to use and at what level during this course?

Each core skill is ranked between (low) level 1 – 5 (high) levels of performance:

- Learning
- Reading
- Writing
- communication
- Numeracy

CLET provides you with an amazing amount of online study resources and support staff to answer your questions and provide assistance when necessary.

The following table allows you to see what level of the core skills you will need to successfully complete this course, with assistance from CLET support staff.

Core skill	Level	What is expected during this course?
------------	-------	--------------------------------------

RTO #31254

Core skill	Level	What is expected during this course?
Learning	Level 5	Your learning at level 5 will be achieved by self-directed learning, actively managing your study commitments and approaching assessments with the attitude that they are new learning challenges and should be completed to a high level. You will work alongside CLET training and support staff asking questions and following instructions, but also making suggestions and critically evaluating your personal strengths and weaknesses as you progress. You will have access to a suitable place for independent study. Success will also be achieved if you regularly access your study material in Study Cloud and save them to a dedicated folder for each unit of study. It is best if you use a diary or a study planner to record study, family, work and social commitments, login details and course progress and identify potential barriers to learning and some possible solutions if needed. There will be some learning challenges that involve moving outside your personal comfort zone that includes participating in online collaborations where appropriate, e.g. discussion boards and may be asked to lead a group on a short research project using the CLET online meeting area and independent research and referencing will be part of your study requirements. You will develop long term strategies to achieve specialised personal/career goals involving management of a range of variables, e.g. formal study or finding opportunities to learn and demonstrate skills in the workplace and actively seek and act on detailed feedback from a number of sources.

RTO #31254

Reading

Level 4

At level 4 you will actively identify an explicit (clear) purpose for reading, e.g. to gather background information, identify specific facts or understand a concept

You will identify a range of questions to be answered by reading that may generate further questions during the reading process. This will include the evaluation of the usefulness of texts to meet your assessment needs.

You will begin to appreciate that reading is an active and interactive process in which your expectations and past experience influence their interpretation.

You will begin to evaluate the credibility, reasonableness and relevance of information and ideas as a routine part of the reading and assessment process that will introduce an increasing number of uncommon words and specialised vocabulary.

Writing	Level 4	At level 4 you will produce a range of documents (familiar and some unfamiliar) and interrelate ideas and information from support material when writing about familiar topics. You will use layouts consistent with CLET assessment conditions and review writing, incorporating teacher/student support comments into the drafting process and use a dictionary and/or spell checker to vocabulary choices, and an English thesaurus (hard copy or online) to extend own vocabulary bank. You will integrate information and ideas from a range of sources, utilising appropriate support materials, and display logical organisational structure in writing through the use of coherently linked paragraphs, using some references. You will check writing by re-reading to check for consistency and accuracy.
Oral communication	Level 4	At level 4 you may be required to demonstrate flexibility in spoken texts by choosing appropriate structures and strategies in a range of contexts. You may also apply appropriate strategies to extract main ideas from oral texts across a range of contexts. This will be achieved in many ways including listening to and following assessment audio and/or video instructions, talking over the phone or attending a scheduled CLET online course induction and study and assessment meetings conducted using either audio only and/or using live video with a CLET trainer or student support.

Numeracy

Level 4

At level 4 you may be required to work in a group to investigate and report on the options and/or work in a team to plan to develop and complete assessment outcomes.

What about Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL)?

Recognition of prior learning is available on this qualification.

After reading the information provided on this qualification page, if you then decide to apply to have your knowledge and skills recognised towards this and/or other qualifications, you may click on the RPL Assessment button and complete the application form to commence the process.

Click on the following headings to learn more about the CLET recognition of prior learning (RPL) process.

Who is eligible to apply for RPL?

CLET specialises in providing recognition of prior learning (RPL) to people who are current or former police, military, emergency services, nursing and all other government at all levels. WHY? Because that is where our workplace knowledge, experience and education is focused and current.

RPL assessment is obligation free

The RPL assessment process is 'free of charge' and 'obligation free'. You only pay the RPL fee if you wish to be awarded with your qualification/s and receive the certificate/s after the assessment process is complete and you are advised of the result. We do this in recognition of the impeccable work you have done for our community.

When RPL form is submitted

After you complete the RPL Assessment form, evidence to support your knowledge and skills is required. When this is received, CLET staff will commence the initial review of your experience against the criteria of one or more qualifications. On the application form you may elect the qualification/s you wish to be assessed against or ask for a general assessment.

1. The more evidence you provide that is relevant against the qualification/s criteria you wish to be assessed against, the easier it is for CLET staff to be confident you possess the knowledge and skills required.
2. If required, a competency conversation may be conducted over the phone

RPL step by step process

The following list provides you with a step by step explanation of the RPL process.

- click on the RPL Assessment button
- complete all requested fields and submit
- read the next page that appears
- upload your evidence on this SECURE page (Scanned copies in a .zip file) or email.
- receive email and SMS confirmation
- CLET staff process. Evidence secured, returned or destroyed immediately after the assessment is conducted)
- receive result of initial review via email within 14 days or longer depending on amount of applications being processed
- you advise which qualification/s you would like to be formally assessment against
- formal assessment is conducted within a further 14 days and you are advised of outcome
- if successful, request certificate/s, payment is now due
- receive your qualification/s via registered post

Evidence required

What evidence can be provided to support your application?

- current Resume or CV
- police officers - service history (important)
- relevant job descriptions
- letters of reference or commendation
- in service courses
- qualification transcripts
- PMKeys Service record
- course reports
- performance appraisal reports
- references
