TRAINING

PUA80119 - Graduate Diploma of Crisis Leadership

This qualification is for those with extensive leadership experience in disaster and emergency response and dealing with crises.

CLET offers the PUA80119 Graduate Diploma of Crisis Leadership for emergency response personnel who have extensive experience in leading crisis situations. Usually experienced personnel will include high level management within a range of emergency services organisations, public and private, and will have had the opportunity to lead command and control and recovery of communities impacted by at least level 3 incidents.

This qualification will support relevant personnel to effectively demonstrate their skills and knowledge in crisis leadership and be able to transition to a range of civilian positions that support emergency response and resilience organisations.

Contact CLET today for a free RPL assessment to see if you are eligible for this dynamic qualification.

Click on the following headings to learn more about the CLET recognition of prior learning (RPL) process.

Who is eligible to apply for RPL?

CLET specialises in providing recognition of prior learning (RPL) to people who are current or former police, military, emergency services, nursing and all other government at all levels. WHY? Because that is where our workplace knowledge, experience and education is focused and current.

RPL assessment is obligation free

The RPL assessment process is 'free of charge' and 'obligation free'. You only pay the RPL fee if you wish to be awarded with your qualification/s and receive the certificate/s after the assessment process is complete and you are advised of the result. We do this in recognition of the impeccable work you have done for our community.

When RPL form is submitted

After you complete the RPL Assessment form, evidence to support your knowledge and skills is required. When this is received, CLET staff will commence the initial review of your experience against the criteria of one or more qualifications. On the application form you may elect the qualification/s you wish to be assessed against or ask for a general assessment.

1. The more evidence you provide that is relevant against the qualification/s criteria you wish to be assessed against, the easier it is for CLET staff to be confident you possess the knowledge and skills required.
2. If required, a competency conversation may be conducted over the phone
