BSB30415 - Certificate III in Business Administration

Business skills form the basis of most employment roles. Make sure yours are recognised with a nationally recognised qualification via RPL today.

The CLET BSB30415 Certificate III in Business Administration is a great entry level qualification that demonstrates an awareness of business technology and the use of generic business skills in the workplace.

Are you a private/able seaman/aircraftman/woman in the military? Make sure you demonstrate to future employers that you have existing business skills from your time in service. The CLET BSB30415 Certificate III in Business Administration is a way to reflect your business skills without trying to explain your service experience.

Perhaps you have been employed in the private or public sector for some time and have no qualifications to demonstrate your experience. The CLET BSB30415 Certificate III in Business Administration will help with this.

Apply for RPL now and let the CLET RPL Team guide you through the process to see what opportunities are available for you in the business sector.

What about Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL)?

Recognition of prior learning is available on this qualification.

After reading the information provided on this qualification page, if you then decide to apply to have your knowledge and skills recognised towards this and/or other qualifications, you may click on the RPL Assessment button and complete the application form to commence the process.

Click on the following headings to learn more about the CLET recognition of prior learning (RPL) process.

Who is eligible to apply for RPL?

CLET specialises in providing recognition of prior learning (RPL) to people who are current or former police, military, emergency services, nursing and all other government at all levels. WHY? Because that is where our workplace knowledge, experience and education is focused and current.

RPL assessment is obligation free

The RPL assessment process is 'free of charge' and 'obligation free'. You only pay the RPL fee if you wish to be awarded with your qualification/s and receive the certificate/s after the assessment process is complete and you are advised of the result. We do this in recognition of the impeccable work you have done for our community.

When RPL form is submitted

After you complete the RPL Assessment form, evidence to support your knowledge and skills is required. When this is received, CLET staff will commence the initial review of your experience against the criteria of one or more qualifications. On the application form you may elect the qualification/s you wish to be assessed against or ask for a general assessment.

1. The more evidence you provide that is relevant against the qualification/s criteria you wish to be assessed against, the easier it is for CLET staff to be confident you possess the knowledge and skills required.
2. If required, a competency conversation may be conducted over the phone
